

NSF-CMi announces India Plans

NSF Safety and Certifications India Private Limited

April 20 , 2009 , New Delhi

NSF-CMi, the leading food safety assurance company, is set to launch operations in India to meet the increasing demand in the region for independent certification. The Indian business entity NSF Safety and Certifications India Private Limited will provide support services to food, water and consumer goods industries across India.

NSF-CMi opened its regional headquarters for Asia-Pacific in Bangkok last year

The move is a strategic response to the region's fast growing needs for food safety and standards and will provide its customers services to meet global regulatory requirements and best practices

NSF-CMi is already a well known certifier for Fresh Produce, Chicken, and other products across Asia exported to US, UK and Europe.

This new development will enable the company to serve the customers in the Indian subcontinent effectively and also support companies who would like to scale up to international standards to expand their business across the globe.

From its new office in Gurgaon the company will deliver the portfolio of auditing, consultancy, certification and training through experienced and highly trained local staff.

For customers this will directly translate to cost effective solutions in their markets

Peter Bracher, Managing Director, Asia Pacific said that "I have seen the huge energy and drive of Indian businesses first hand, and I'm confident that the Indian food industry will be a major international force in the very near future, so I'm delighted that we are establishing our new operations in India to support the growth of large and small Indian food businesses"

NSF-CMi is owned by NSF International and is the leading international food safety and assurance company operating throughout the food supply chain. It provides consulting, certification and technical services to clients in the farming, food processing, and distribution, catering and leisure sectors and also to many government and executive agencies across US, UK and Europe.

NSF-CMi has offices in 17 counties and operates in more than 40 countries through its UK and international divisions

For more information and details contact Jyoti Bhasin – 9717100339/ Visit us at : www.nsf.org, www.nsf-cmi.com